John T. Boileuillet's Official Record Will Elect O. R. Bennett to the Public Service Commission.

Providence permitting, I will have covered one hundred and thirty-two counties personally in my campaign for a place on the Public Service Commission with the week ending immediately preceding the week of the primary.

Based on the usual opportunities coming from a personal canvass of this sort, I have every reason to believe that I will be nominated by a good majority. I say this not in any spirit of vanity because I realize that I will simply be the beneficiary of an outraged public. I have made an aggressive campaign, yet an absolutely fair one. I have studiously avoided personalities from beginning to end and no one can correctly say to the contrary where a fair consideration of what I have written is given. I have confined myself to Commissioner Boileuillet's official record. With the limited opportunities I have had, time has not given me the privilege of covering his entire record. I have confined myself to some of the more recent and inexcusable happenings growing out of his inattention to official duties, as the result of carrying on his newspaper work.

I apprehend that we will yet have a "death-bed" repentant declaration from him seeking to convert the charges I have made against his official record. He has had more than eight weeks to make this answer and I submit in all fairness that he should not be taken seriously on his political "death-bed" if he undertakes to make answer at this late hour. In good conscience Mr. Boileuillet put himself out of the campaign in his formal announcement wherein he declared that he would quit the race and retire to private life if any one could show where he had ever done anything contrary to the interest of the farmers of Georgia. I immediately accepted his challenge and gave proof of instances, one after another, where, by his vote and his refusal to vote, he is responsible for heavy losses to the farmers of Georgia in the sum of thousands of dollars per day. This is primarily due to his being responsible for there not being at this time a lower rate on fertilizer, agricultural limestone, and sand and gravel in this state. The taxpayers of this state are losing approximately $500,000 per year, because of higher rates on sand and gravel in Georgia than obtain on rates from points without the state to points within the state of Georgia. I say again that Mr. Boileuillet's continual devotion to newspaper work since he has been on the Commission has totally unfitted him for an intelligent consideration and conclusions of various cases coming before the Commission. He knows as little about the technical duties of his office today as the day he entered office eight years ago. He has no right to take employment from other interests at a large salary when the law requires that he give his entire time to the duties of his office. Worse still, he commits an inexcusable outrage when he votes to pay an expert engineer $25 per day for the performance of duties that Mr. Boileuillet should in part have performed himself. I have called upon him to name the cases in which he has worked out personal conclusions and given written expression thereof during the eight years he has been in office. I have called upon him to name a single effort he has made to revise and readjust the prohibitive rates we find prevailing in the movement of vegetables and farm products. He has been called upon to name a single instance where he has originated one thought and brought it to a successful conclusion resulting in relief to the distressed conditions in which the farmers of our state find themselves. To all of these requests he has remained silent for more than eight weeks.

Isn't it a reasonable inference that his thirty-five years' record as a professional officeholder, both in Europe and America, brought him to a state of indifference toward applying himself to a discharge of his official duties?

O. R. BENNETT.

Now—Cooler Breakfasts

Tomorrow's breakfast prepared with tonight's dinner—a QUICK QUAKER delight

Try this new recipe

HERE is the richest, most delightfully cooling of hot weather breakfasts. Made of oats, it's supremely nourishing and invigorating, too.

As you prepare dinner tonight, cook your regular breakfast QUICK QUAKER (the new Quaker Oats that cooks in three to five minutes).

When done, pour into a pudding mould and let cool. Then place in the refrigerator over night. Cut in medium thick slices and serve at breakfast with fresh or cooked fruits or berries and sugar—float with rich milk or cream.

The combination is delightful. A world noted chef discovered this new way. Just for the joy of it, try it.

EX-GEORGIAN MAY DIE; 2 HURT IN EXPLOSION

Florence, Ala., August 25.—Paul Stafford, Wade Barker and Cary Tiner are in a hospital suffering from burns sustained in a garage fire here late yesterday. Stafford, whose home is thought to be in Griffin, Ga., is perhaps fatally injured. The youths were burned by explosions of gasoline and oil while trying to drive automobiles out of the garage. The building and 19 automobiles were destroyed.

Griffin, Ga., August 25.—(Special.) Paul Stafford, 20, former football star of Griffin High school, whose father, Rev. J. Marion Stafford, was filling a brief appointment at the First Presbyterian church, Atlanta, at the time of the accident to his son at Florence, Ala., lived here for about five years. The family moved recently to Pine Bluff, Ark., where Rev. Stafford is pastor of a congregation.

Rev. Stafford, his wife and his daughter, Miss Dora Cary Stafford, are at the bedside of the injured youth at Florence. They left here late Sunday.

A fly trap that will attract the flies by electricity and then electrocute them has been patented.

For Burning Feet Joint-Ease

Tens of thousands of men and women are using Joint-Ease for sore, tired, aching, burning feet because it gets right into the joints and loosens the ligaments of the 26 small bones in each foot.

It's foolish to soak and powder your feet and expect any lasting relief from your foot troubles as much deeper than the skin.

Wm. E. Frederick of Merrill, Wisconsin, used Joint-Ease for sore feet and he writes this that ought to interest people with foot troubles:

"I got a tube of Joint-Ease and my feet feel fine this afternoon. I could hardly walk yesterday—you can't believe how good my feet feel, Oh Boy."

Always remember that when Joint-Ease gets in foot agony and burning get out quick.

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will almost always stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, live and lustrous. At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooler water, the last water being cold.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment easily heal eczema and similar skin eruptions. Sold by all druggists.

money held a conference in Atlanta Monday morning with D. B. Long, chairman of the soil improvement committee, who is a member of the special committee named to arrange details of the demonstrations.

CORDELE PREPARES FOR DEMONSTRATION

Cordele, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—Indications point to the big crowd ever assembled in Cordele Thursday, when the airplane dusting demonstration, along with a barbecue will be held.

The government has two new dusting planes just completed for the work of dusting cotton, pecan or peach trees, or large fields of truck and these with a passenger plane bringing government officials the governor and other notables will be in evidence on the occasion.

The demonstration will take place at 11 o'clock in the morning in the Weiler Valley, a mile southwest of town. It is estimated that 10,000 people can witness the demonstration. There are 4,000 acres of cotton in this valley.

Just as soon as the demonstration is finished, the crowd will be directed to William's park opposite the swimming pool where Dr. Coad, the government expert, will deliver an address on the practicability of this method of distributing poison.

Governor Clifford Walker, Senator Walter E. George and Congressman Charles R. Crisp, all of whom have accepted an invitation to be present, will deliver short addresses, a barbecue will be served.

Planes will first be parked in the pasture of Leo Mercer, four miles north of Cordele, that being the closest location where a good landing field could be found. Mr. Mercer is getting the pasture cleared of weeds and brush, so that the planes will have a clear landing place.

Committees from the board of trade have plans for the occasion well in hand, and the I. O. O. F. and the K. E. F. Tison are directing arrangements for the serving of the barbecue and entertaining the large crowd expected to be present.

DAWES SCURRIES THROUGH PARLEY

land at about 4 to resume his trip to Chicago.

Did Not Mention Klan.

The whole purpose of his visit, according to the general, was publicly to state that he was not a member of any other campaign question. In fact, according to Dawes, the Klan was not discussed with the president.

"The truth of the reason why I came here was because the republican national committee sent me a wire saying they were shy on good publicity."

It had been general belief that the principal reason for the conference was Dawes' speech at Augusta, Maine, on the Ku Klux Klan.

Dawes said cryptically: "There can be no question to the right which is not a right reaction, irrespective of what some politicians may say. Further, you will have to wait to see what will have to say for myself on the subject."

Dawes was asked to analyze the political situation in the west, but declined, saying he was not a politician.

"I have not been a politician since I fell off a six-story political building in 1901 and got licked for the United States senate," the general explained. He added, however, that he considered the prospects of President Coolidge and the republican ticket in the west as extremely good.

The distinguished visitor refused to comment on the reparations situation, saying the members of the experts' commission had agreed not to discuss their work.

"Anything I would say would be cabled abroad and it would be regarded as an interpretation of the experts' report," he added.

Before leaving Dawes impressed Colonel John Coolidge, the president's father, into service as a notary public to authenticate an affidavit to get the names of the republican standard bearers on the Pennsylvania ballot.

A change in plans will bring the president and his party back to Washington Friday noon, instead of Thursday afternoon, as originally planned. The president found that he had no engagements in Washington before Friday noon and desiring to extend his vacation as long as possible gave orders that his departure be deferred from Wednesday to Thursday night.

The budget for the new Turkish republic shows a deficit of $5,000,000 for 1924-25.

Lest We Forget--

The undersigned lawyers of Atlanta respectfully submit to the voters of Fulton county the following:

FIRST: The resolutions adopted by the Atlanta Bar Association, in which they denounce the conduct of Judge Howard in connection with his appointment to the judgeship of the Superior Court as "IMPROPER, ILLEGAL, CORRUPT AND CONTRARY TO PUBLIC POLICY," and in which the Atlanta Bar Association declared that "it is inconsistent with the proper administration of justice that Judge Howard should continue to hold office as Judge of the Superior Court."

SECOND: The action of the Grand Jury of this county in bringing in a special presentment to the July term, 1923, in which the Grand jury of this county expressed its opinion of Judge Howard's unfitness for the bench.

For your convenience in reading these two findings we are publishing them as a part of this statement. Bear in mind that they were not made in connection with any political race, or for political purposes, but were called forth by the investigation of charges made against Judge Howard in connection with his actions in securing the position.

We do not in any sense seek to tell you how to vote. The duty of choosing the Judge of the Superior Court rests upon all the voters. Lawyers are no more interested than any one else, and have no more responsibility than any one else. Perhaps the fact that they are in closer contact with the courts and have a better opportunity for judging the fitness of candidates makes it their duty to tell the voters what they know, but YOU MUST DECIDE. IT IS YOUR RESPONSIBILITY AS MUCH AS OURS.

Here are the facts: Judge Howard was appointed to the bench. Charges were made against him involving conduct which was afterwards described by the Bar Association, in its resolution on the subject, as "IMPROPER, ILLEGAL AND CORRUPT." These charges were referred by the Bar Association to its grievance committee, consisting of Messrs. Robert P. Jones, John A. Sibley, and Marion Smith. This committee was not appointed for this special purpose, but is one of the standing committees of the association to which members are appointed for a year's term.

The committee fixed August 24, 1923, as the time for a public hearing at the Court House and notified Judge Howard to this effect, he, however, not appearing before the committee. At the public hearing the charges were testified to by men of high standing in this community, including Mr. Edgar Latham, Mr. James A. Branch (then the President of the Atlanta Bar Association), Mr. Albert Howell, Jr., Mr. W. Carroll Lattimer, and others. The testimony brought out that Judge Howard had attempted to make a trade with Mr. Latham for the division of fees of a public office, based not on a division of the work of the office but solely on the secret use of alleged political influence, which was the attempt the Bar Association described as illegal and corrupt.

The committee unanimously found that the charges were sustained by the proof and that Judge Howard's conduct was illegal and grossly improper.

This report of the grievance committee was filed with the executive committee. The executive committee recommended that the Bar Association adopt the following resolution:

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY THE LAWYERS.

"Whereas, certain charges have been made relative to the conduct of Judge G. H. Howard in connection with the appointment of the Judge of the Superior Court of Fulton county, and

"Whereas, the grievance committee of the Atlanta Bar Association has investigated these charges in accordance with the by-laws of the Atlanta Bar Association and found that the charges are true,

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the Atlanta Bar Association approves the report of its grievance committee, condemns without qualification the conduct of Judge Howard set out in detail in the report of the grievance committee, as improper, illegal, corrupt, and contrary to public policy and declares that it is inconsistent with the proper administration of justice that Judge Howard should continue to hold office as Judge of the Superior Court."

A public meeting of the Bar Association was called at the Court House, and the room was filled with lawyers who attended. There has never been such a large meeting of lawyers in Atlanta within our knowledge. The resolutions just quoted were adopted practically unanimously, as there were only five dissenting votes.

The Grand Jury for the July term being in session made the following presentment: SPECIAL PRESENTMENT TO THE COURT BY THE GRAND JURY FOR THE JULY, 1923, TERM OF FULTON SUPERIOR COURT.

"The charges made under oath by a reputable citizen of this county against Judge G. H. Howard, who was recently appointed by Governor Clifford Walker to the newly created judgeship of the Superior Court of Fulton County, have made a very painful impression on this Grand Jury. These charges have been investigated by a committee from the Atlanta Bar Association, a number of witnesses of more or less prominence having testified under oath during the progress of such investigation, and the findings of this committee sustain the charges referred to. We recognize the fact that neither the Atlanta Bar Association nor any committee from that association has any legal authority to prevent Judge Howard from performing the duties of the office to which he has been appointed. Yet by reason of the wide publicity given these charges, which certainly will tend to discredit the courts, it is the sense of this Grand Jury that it would be most unfortunate for him to perform any of the duties of a Judge of the Superior Court until the charges are sustained or disproved before a legally constituted authority."

We understand Judge Howard has been calling to his private chambers at the Court House members of the Grand Jury who found this presentment, and bringing pressure on them to sign some kind of retraction. We learned that numbers of the members of the Grand Jury have indignantly refused to do so, or to be coerced in their honest judgment. If a few members should yield to this pressure it could in no way affect what the Grand Jury officially did.

We respectfully submit this for your consideration. We have no selfish interest in the matter whatever. But we urge our fellow citizens not to keep upon the bench, in the high and trusted position of a Judge of the Superior Court, the man about whom these findings were made.

We are giving this information to the public without being requested to do so by any candidate, but solely because we deem it our duty to call attention to these facts.

"Miss Atlanta" Adds Laurels SEES NAME IN ELECTRIC LIGHTS OVER THEATER Of Stage to Beauty Crown

Miss Estelle Bradley, petite blonde bearer of the Atlanta beauty title, Monday night added new laurels to her crown when she made a distinct hit with a packed audience at a local theater.

"Miss Atlanta" took a speaking part in this week's presentation of "Made in the Movies" by the Jolly players, and in addition posed for an imaginary motion picture machine in an interlude scene.

The theater was brightly decorated in her honor, a sign over the entrance bearing the words: "Welcome 'Miss Atlanta.'" In addition, she was presented with a trio of gorgeous bouquets during the course of the storm of applause that greeted her.

"Miss Atlanta" will leave next Monday for a week in Atlantic City, where she will participate in the various events of the National Beauty Pageant.

Final arrangements for transportation for her and her chaperon will be made by The Constitution today, plans for her stay at the sumptuous Marlborough-Blenheim hotel on the fashionable boardwalk having been made last Saturday.

Meanwhile, Martin Amoroso, Jr., famous young designer, is completing her afternoon gown, a magnificent creation in the various shades of pinks. Others gowns in the gorgeous wardrobe which Mr. Amoroso will present to the reigning beauty as a tribute to her charms already have been completed.

"Miss Atlanta" has been forced to decline a number of invitations to attend various civic events this week on account of her theater engagement and her desire to secure rest after the strenuous activities of last week. She will appear with the Lyric players throughout the week.

HARPER WILL HEAD NEGRO HIGH SCHOOL

C. L. Harper, professor of secondary education at Morris Brown university for a number of years, will be principal of the new junior-senior high school for negroes, it was decided by the board of education in special session Monday afternoon.

Harper was one of three negro educators recommended to the board by a joint committee representing practically all of the important religious and civic organizations among the colored population of Atlanta.

The new negro school building, said to be the most imposing structure ever erected for negro education in the United States, is scheduled to open at the same time with the other schools, September 8, and will inaugurate for the first time high school education for negroes as a part of the Atlanta public school system.

WALTZ COMING BACK, DECLARES ATLANTAN

Chicago, August 25.—Because people have the wrong conception of what is to be done and "try to dance without being tortured," according to Edward S. Hurst, Atlanta, Ga., dancing instructor, who with Raymond Bost Youngstown, Ohio, is jointly in charge of the public relations department of the American National Association of Masters of Dancing, and holding its forty-first annual convention here.

"For the next season the waltz will predominate with all its beauty and refinement," Mr. Hurst said, adding: "Along with the waltz they will dance the simplified tango and tango that is so simple that it may be easily picked up by the fox-trot fiends without trouble. And another thing you will dance the fox-trot with much less of the new popular fast tempo."

Lynch Terrell, Veteran in Mail Service, Is Dead

Lynch Moore Terrell, prominent Atlantian, and for 30 years superintendent of railroad mail service for the Fourth division, died Monday night at the residence, 341 Courtland street. He suffered a paralytic stroke in 1917, and never recovered. Mr. Terrell, who was 90 years old, was born at Columbus, Ind., but moved to Atlanta in 1876, and had resided here since. He was placed in charge of railway mail service for this district several years after coming here, and served until incapacitated by paralysis. He was a Civil war veteran, and fought in many important campaigns. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, Royal Legion, and St. Luke's Episcopal church.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Miss Lina S. Terrell, three sons, F. J. Terrell, of Atlanta; W. H. Terrell, of Chicago, and N. L. Terrell, of Norfolk; a sister, Mrs. A. M. O'Brien, of Indianapolis, and two granddaughters, Misses Mattie Hammond and Marion Joy Terrell.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning from the residence, with Dr. C. R. Wilcox, rector of St. Luke's church, officiating. Interment will be in West View with Barclay & Brandon in charge.

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR AUTO DRIVER KILLED IN CRASH

Last services for Arthur W. Tew, Atlanta race driver who was killed Saturday when his car was wrecked during a race at Lakewood park, were held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon from the chapel of Greenberg & Bond, Rev. J. W. Burr conducting the services. Interment was in Crest Lawn. Tew is survived by his mother, Mrs. Fannie E. Tew; three brothers, H. C. Tew, E. and Harry Tew, and a sister, Miss Lucile Tew.

PASSENGER IN JITNEY REPORTS LOSS OF $25

W. M. Milam, of Cartersville, Monday reported to Atlanta police, that his pockets had been picked while he rode in a jitney on Peachtree street. He said that the thief obtained $25 in money, a diamond stick pin and a gold watch. The car, he said, drove off before he missed his possessions.

BOARD OF THREE FOR SCHOOL FUNDS

committees" were abolished, the board voted to let a majority of members of the committee rule and at the same time to permit President John T. Hancock to select from the committee, on which he has been active as an ex-officio member, leaving five as the total membership.

Contracts Sent Back.
Heretofore, unanimous approval of the committee was required to approve school expenditures, with the result that practically every important contract was reported back for final action by the board because of disagreement of at least one member. Under the new regulations, a majority of the committee can act for the full board.

C. State, chairman, Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, A. C. Meixner, Dr. R. M. Eubank and Dr. Fred Morris. The board at the same meeting, after vesting absolute authority over expenditures in the committee, re-elected back to its contracts for heating plants at Edgewood and Gray street schools and for purchase of desks for new schools, on which the committee had failed to agree at a meeting last week.

Deferred Payment Plan.
The committee, under its new powers, will also work out the details of contracts made to defer until next year payment for equipment used this year. The deferred payment plan was adopted in order to tide the schools over until next year in the face of an actual deficit of nearly $100,000.

President Hancock said his withdrawal from the committee was actuated by the belief that he "could do no more for the schools by devoting his time to other school business than that of directing the finances."

OHIO DEMOCRATS TO OPPOSE KLAN

by Thomas Nector, of Cincinnati, and John A. O'Dyer, of Toledo, carried their victory still further in putting through a motion to name an executive committee of 15 members instead of a committee of 22 members proposed by the faction favorable to the Klan.

The test of strength of the anti-Klan forces came on the selection of a temporary chairman. Scott received 13 votes, Hest 9, and three anti-Klan members absent when the roll was called. Immediately on the election of Scott as temporary chairman, E. J. Lyons, of Toledo, moved that Scott's election be made permanent. On roll call 16 votes were cast for Scott while four members voted no. Flushed with victory the anti-Klan forces determined to make a clean sweep before there could be a break in their ranks. Instead of electing an executive committee and permitting that committee to select its chairman, they proceeded at once to name the chairman of the executive committee and select the personnel later. Thomas Conors, of Cincinnati, proposed Dye's names for the executive committee chairmanship and the election was made by acclamation. Dye's friends not putting his name forward.

Move Started in New York.
The move to oust Chairman Heer and Durbine is understood to have started at the New York convention immediately after Durbine voted against adoption of the minority platform report which denounced the Klan by name.

Leaders of the anti-Ku Klux Klan faction announced after their victory that they intend to make a determined fight for the adoption of a strong anti-Klan plank in the state platform before tomorrow's state convention.

POLITICAL SAGES HOPE KLAN IS ENDED

into the background. Some of these same democrats fear, however, that the time and the other circumstances of the Davis utterance may detract from its value. If Davis had spoken very early; or if the Klan had attacked him and he was defying them; or if one of his opponents had challenged him and he was responding to the challenge—under any of those conditions, it is felt, Davis might have secured all the credit he deserves.

Fear Heavy Demands.
Maybe he will receive it anyhow. But it is feared that all the circumstances of the democratic convention may cause the public to think that Davis' action at this time was taken because he was under pressure from some local leaders of the democracy, pressure not unaccompanied by intimations of insubordination. It is this aspect of the declaration that troubles some of the national leaders. They fear Davis may get the reputation of a man who can be moved by local leaders, or by cliques and that he may now be subject to demands from all sorts of factions that he take a stand on all sorts of local and minor questions.

Practically all politicians of both parties loathe the Klan for reasons of their own, and nothing that can be said against it is too strong for them. But they say it is dangerous for any candidate to start the precedent of departing from his set speeches as prepared in advance. They say that running for the presidency is a sufficiently exalted position to enable a man to confine himself to his set speeches if he prepares to do it that way.

Risk Too Great.

Once he sets the precedent of departing from his set speeches there is risk of demand being made on him at every speech he makes, and in every community where he appears, to say something about some question or other having chiefly local application. A few of them would be inclined to warn Davis against risks involved in being affected by the atmosphere of local communities and the atmosphere of particular gatherings he attends to the extent of his saying things he had not intended to say. They claim there is some risk of a man who does this too often saying sometimes a thing he would prefer afterward not to have said. Nearly all the politicians of both parties regard the present campaign as being to a peculiar degree one in which it is probable for all the candidates and all the friends of candidates to be criticized by the politicians mean that this is a campaign with so many cross currents and so many minor issues in local communities, that a single phrase from somebody may have the effect of the unfortunate Dr. Burchard's utterance had on the fortunes of James G. Blaine.

Pressure Was Great.

It is well known that there was a good deal of demand on the part of local democratic leaders in New York and New Jersey and elsewhere in the east, that Davis mention the Klan by name. A feeling had been worked up which made a curious distinction between denouncing the principles of the Klan and denouncing it by name. "Name it," became a kind of slogan.

On the other hand, some who have been making demands on Davis may now turn to making demands on Coolidge that he mention the Klan by name and take a stand on it. The national democratic leaders hope so, not on political grounds merely, but for higher reasons. They say that for Coolidge to speak now would complete the process of all three candidates going on record; and that this would be the one thing that might get the Klan out of the campaign and permit the public to focus its attention on real and more exalted issues.

If Coolidge should not speak, it is felt that the Klan question will remain to the front. The Democrats are not regarded as sufficiently committing the republican party.

At the same time, some thoughtful persons feel that Davis' handling of the question was rather more adequate than Davis' just because Davis went into it more deeply. Compared to Davis' rather extensive treatment, Davis' utterance seemed merely a fulfilling of the demand that he "name it." Davis disapproved the Klan utterly, but he went farther and gave his frank opinion of those "cowardly politicians" whose fear and failure in the whole field of law enforcement has been one of the things that gave the Klan a chance to start and grow.

HARTSFIELD SEEN AS NEW CHAIRMAN

cooled the question of school financing methods was one of the chief issues on which Alderman Bachman differed with the mayor and the latter's public statement demanding the resignation indicated that anticipation of a move to obstruct the Sims school finance plan was immediately responsible for this action.

Alderman Bachman issued a formal statement Monday to the effect that he would resign as soon as the request for resignation was made directly to him. It was not known whether the mayor had asked that he quit the finance committee entirely or only as chairman. In case Alderman Bachman resigned from the committee entirely, it was considered assured that Councilman William E. Saunders would be appointed in his place.

Bachman's Statement.

Alderman Bachman's statement in reply to the mayor's public demand for his resignation followed: "I am informed Sunday night that the mayor had prepared a communication for me during the day, requesting me to resign the post of chairman of the finance committee. I am prepared to wait until today to reply."

"I have not as yet received the communication, but assume its text is accurately given in the morning's newspaper. When it is received, it is my purpose to restore to the mayor his privilege of making another appointment."

"I will not be drawn into personal controversy with the mayor. I am not a candidate for the office of mayor and the public is not interested in our personal opinions of each other. It is against just this sort of thing that I am protesting with all the vigor I possess. If the mayor desires to drag the campaign to the low plane of vituperation and personal abuse, he cannot rely upon me to help him do so. I shall not be tempted to do so by misrepresentation and distortion of facts insofar as they relate to me personally. The city has suffered enough already from this kind of business. Better men than I have been pilloried for failure to prostitute their convictions before unworthy political ambitions. It is no longer a disgrace to be crucified for adherence to principles in which one believes and for an honest effort to perform public service unselfishly. If his honor, the mayor, can accomplish it in my case I will abide the result with composure.

Post Unsolicited.

"The position of chairman of the finance committee came to be unsolicited. I have tried to discharge its duties faithfully. In this endeavor I have received at all times the cordial aid of my colleagues. The members of the finance committee have labored together with unusual unanimity. I shall always remember their generous counsel and considerate support with profound gratitude and hold each one of them in affectionate esteem."

"The mayor has stated that I should neither claim the credit nor receive the censure for the further acts of this committee. I would not court the one nor fear the other."

"But, in the light of his communication, my answer to his request admits of no hesitation. It becomes a choice between honor and political preference at his hands, and for me that choice is not difficult."

DARROW FINISHES LONG MERCY PLEA

kindness and gentleness and love."

He disliked his own tears and disposed of them with as little show as possible.

There was visible emotion among many of the spectators and Judge John R. Caverly, flushed as he pressed a pencil to his lips. Neither Leopold nor Loeb moved but they centered their aged lawyer looks of unwavering interest, and the former touched Mr. Darrow's sleeve as he passed him going out of court.

He indicted the age in which we live for cruelty. He indicted warfare calousing the hearts and sympathies of men. He indicted the educational system under which "young, plastic minds" are given the pagan philosophies of all times. He spoke with scorn of the tendency of jurists and lawyers to move in the ruts of legal terminology in utter disregard of the advances of science and the advancement of thought.

Berates Death Penalties.

He pointed to the "weird mentalities" of his clients and the "ironical mad and horrifying" crime which they contrived as the product, even responsibility, of ages gone.

He characterized as "an ancient superstition and nothing more" the theory that hanging is a deterrent to crime.

"Hanging grew up in the age of barbarism from which we are so lately come as an exhibition—not as a punishment," he said.

He brought together in impressive design multicolored threads of legal history, philosophical criticism, scientific accumulations in the field of the psychology of youth, and a liberal portion of old-fashioned soliloquy. He reached to the Scriptures for inspiration and support, and quoted poetry at intervals in a studied attempt to bring his appeal to the heart of Judge Caverly, who must decide the penalty for the kidnaping and murder of Robert Franks.

Caverly at Cross-Roads.

"I am pleading for life, for charity and kindness and for humanity," he said.

"I am pleading for the overcoming of cruelty with kindness and love. Your honor stands between the past and the future. I know that the future is with me and I am pleading for it. I am pleading for a time when hatred and cruelty will not control the hearts of men, when we shall realize that mercy is the highest attribute of man."

Never in the history of the local courts, Mr. Darrow told the judge, has any culprit under 24 years of age been hanged after a plea of guilty.

"I do not know how much salvage there may be in these two poor, diseased minds," he said. "It might be merciful for your honor to tie a rope around their necks and let them die now. It might be merciful to them but certainly not to those who come after them."

The salvation of youth is the highest attribute of the state, Mr. Darrow argued, and characterized the hanging of several Chicago boys after jury trials as "a shame and a disgrace."

Takes Rap At Jurors.

"Jurors have not the wisdom and mercy that come from age and experience," he apostrophized, adding that if Judge Caverly "decorates the gallows" with Leopold and Loeb it would be in "violation of the policy of the law and the spirit of humanity."

"Some day another judge may hang a boy of 17, or 15, or even 14," he added.

The attorney denounced as "poisoned perjury" the testimony given by one of the investigators for the state's attorney that Leopold, shortly after his arrest, had expressed a hope of escaping the hangman by "pleading guilty before a friendly judge." Mr. Darrow said he mentioned this because he wished Judge Caverly to know that the defense had every confidence in him.

He explained, too, that his reference to war was because armed conflict had always been followed by an era of crime. He spoke of numerous veterans of the World war who had landed in courts after their return from the trenches, where "honorable, upright boys had learned how cheap was human life."

Were Fed On Blood.

"We were fed on flesh and drank blood, even down to prattling babies," exclaimed Mr. Darrow, as he emphasized that the glories of war were preached from platform and pulpit and even taught in the Sunday schools.

"There are truly causes for crime."

as well as for everything else that happens in this world," he said. "Human blood was not the same to these two boys after we had all been bathed in blood. War, money and education all were part of the circumstances that combined to wreck their destruction."

There were tears in Mr. Darrow's eyes as with quivering voice he pictured the crumbling hopes of the parents of the boys, and the effect of the crime upon the future generations of their families. His voice broke again when he reached his peroration.

"I know," he said, "that your honor stands between the future and the past. For me the future means the hopes of the young. I plead for life, charity, kindness, sympathy and understanding and the future is with me."

Use "Portia's Plea."

"Your honor may hang these boys; but if you do you will make it harder for every boy and girl in this land and for the babes as yet unborn."

"I am pleading that all life is worth saving and that mercy is the highest attribute of man."

"My greatest reward, hope and compensation will be that I have done something for the tens of thousands of boys who must follow the path these two poor young Jews have trod."

In a stillness that was broken by not even the muffled clicking of "silent" typewriters on telegraph instruments in the press seats, Mr. Darrow added this verse from Omar Khayyam:

"So I be written in the Book of Love I do not care about that book above; Erase my name, or write it as you will."

Slowly, almost fumbling, he gathered the pages and papers on which he had been relying for the sequence of his ideas. He turned toward his seat, but had not reached it when State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe and Benjamin Bachman rose to start the final argument for defense tomorrow, agreed with Judge Caverly that it was time to adjourn. Dozens crowded about Mr. Darrow to congratulate him, but the bailiffs pushed them back as they persuaded spectators that it was time to clear the courtroom.

GEORGIA ROAD BUILDING.

Naming Georgia specifically, The Manufacturers Record has the following to say about highway building through state bond issues:

"In the light of what highway building has done for North Carolina and the way in which the educational progress of that state has been advanced by the liberal expenditures made during the last few years for college and university extensions, all out of two bond issues, it is incomprehensible that people in Kentucky and Georgia, where similar programs have been projected, should for one moment hesitate to follow the example of North Carolina.

"North Carolina is a living illustration of the great truth that by reason of the automobile tax and the tax on gasoline highways can be built without a dollar of cost to the state. In North Carolina the tax on automobiles and on gasoline will take care of the entire interest on the bonds issued for this work, and also the amortization of these bonds.

"On the other hand, the automobile people are entirely satisfied in paying these taxes because the reduction in the cost of operating their cars, the lessened consumption of gasoline over good roads as compared with bad roads, the saving of wear and tear on their machines more than make up the entire amount that they have to pay in taxes on their cars and their gas."

There is not the slightest doubt about the great benefits that North Carolina as a whole has derived from the progressive policy of its legislature in voting bonds for roads and schools and in meeting all other economic issues in a progressive, aggressive and economically sound manner.

Georgia's legislature did not submit a highway bond issue this year, as many had hoped it would, but it did provide that a number of counties in South Georgia might coordinate in a bond issuing group, so that the poor counties which could not issue bonds on the basis of taxable wealth might have the benefit of the richer counties, in the group and thus link up their group through highways by the combination of local, state and federal aid finances. This will be a great help in highway development, especially in providing some of the missing links in the Dixie highway.

In the meantime Georgia's highway commission is doing an excellent work with the resources at hand. Two of the three-cent gas tax, plus the automobile license taxes, in all around $4,000,000 a year, is most appropriately spent as a match fund with the federal aid and as local road-building funds, in building a comprehensive system of hard roads in Georgia.

This state is not only not idle, but with the resources at hand is making one of the best records in the United States in road building.

THE WRONG IDEA.

The following editorial from The Ohio State Journal illustrates how thoroughly misunderstood is the boll weevil situation, not only in states far removed from the cotton belt, but unfortunately by newspapers within the belt, as the same views have been expressed here at home:

"An inscription on a monument in Alabama reads as follows:

"To profound appreciation of the boll weevil and what it has done as the herald of prosperity this monument is erected by the citizens of Etowah, Coffee, county, Alabama.

When the boll weevil, whose services to the southern planter are thus commemorated in enduring stone, first arrived on our shores and went to work in the southern cottonfields, he was regarded as a wholly bad character, a thorough-going scoundrel. He played terrible havoc with the crops and reduced the cotton farmers to a state of desperation. No means of combating him, and many were tried, proved effective. At last someone thought of the rotation of crops and it was found that the boll weevil had to have his cotton or perish. He did not like anything else to eat, could not digest it and, in the year when something else was grown in the field, there was nothing for him to do but turn up his toes and die, which he did. The farmers discovered, to their surprise, that the rotation of crops was not only very good for the boll weevil but very good for their soil and their pocketbooks. It caused them to produce more value to themselves and from hating the boll weevil they went to appreciating him and feeling grateful to him for his invaluable, if not wholly unselfish services, as is proved by what it says on the monument.

"This true story teaches us, children, that what seems like unalloyed misfortune is often good fortune in disguise if only we keep our heads and our patience and learn all we possibly can from it. Let us all make the most of our boll weevils. We all have 'em."

The fact is the weevil is a migratory insect and rotation of crops does not cure the weevil situation in the slightest. It has recently been said by southern newspapers that ought to have known better that the weevil was "passing." The fact is the weevil is just as prevalent today in Texas as the year of the greatest infestation a quarter of a century ago.

It is a poor policy to attempt to educate cotton farmers along the wrong lines. The weevil is here—here to stay, and the only way to keep down infestation is by constant care and adequate poisoning. And the only way to grow cotton successfully under weevil conditions is to observe the rules of culture so frequently and so explicitly noted by The Constitution—radically reduced acreage, intensive cultivation, and calcium arsenate.

AS TO COTTON TARIFF.
The tariff commission has been asked to investigate the New England cotton mill situation with a view to giving the textile interests more tariff protection. The commission replies that it cannot do so for the reason that it is running out of funds. In other words the tariff commission, supposed to be non-partisan, but in reality strongly pro-republican, does not propose to have any "investigations" during the republican campaign for perpetuation of the Fordney-McCumber act, and for popular approval of the same.

It will be recalled that the Fordney-McCumber bill ran cotton duties far up above those named in the Payne-Aldrich bill. Those rates and the rates of the bill which is now the law, were dictated by the eastern cotton mills. Then the prices of fabrics, without any specific regard to the prices of raw cotton, were placed upon a tariff basis. That is to say, without helping the cotton farmer, the consumer of cotton cloths were unable to pay a fictitious price, amounting to millions of dollars of mill protection alone.

Southern textile interests as a rule have not urged higher tariff rates because they have reasoned the situation in its true economic meaning. That is, that fictitious high fabric prices necessarily restrict consumption, which in turn can only mean short time mill operation, or the closing down of mills completely. They have taken a far more sensible view of the situation than have the New England mill owners who have been most prominent in seeking recently new and higher tariff duties.

NEW FEATHERS.
This is the moulting season when the birds shed their old feathers preparatory to growing a new coat. It is also the vacation season after which people hope to come back to their work-a-day tasks with renewed energy and mental vigor. Like the birds, we hope to shed some of our old notions—worn-out intellectual regalia—and with the opening of a new period of activity, dress our mental processes in new and attractive garments.

In selecting our new feathers we might do well to make some radical departures. If in the past we have been wearing feathers which, like those of a frizzled chicken, all turn the wrong way—that is contrary to those of our neighbors, their ideas and modes of thought—we might profitably replace these with feathers which lie smoothly and harmoniously.

The garish peacock feathers which have been used chiefly to advertise our vanities might well be laid aside and something sober-hued and useful put in their place, and if we happen to have any feathers with sharp ends sticking outward like those of the woodpecker in his tail we might dispense with them.

In growing a new coat of feathers we would do well to follow even such an ignoble bird as the goose, whose coat is of such a nature that it protects him from little outside botherations like cold and rain and acts as a magnificent shock absorber in contact with his neighbors. The coat of the goose brings comfort and promotes harmony and good will.

Consider the Pedestrian.
Taking up the defense in favor of the pedestrian, The Howell Gazette says:

"Drivers of motor cars who come down the street at a lively clip and honk their horns for persons on foot to give them the right-of-way are entirely in the wrong. The courts have long ago decided that the person on foot who is on the sidewalk or crossing is the right of way and is not obliged to jump or run when a motor car horn is sounded. In fact, no person is obliged to give way to a motor car, because the horn is sounded. The driver of the car must wait until the person on foot has passed over the crossing. The foot passenger clearly has the right of way, there's no doubt about it."

Letting Them Down Easy.
Evidently the Chicago Tribune is pleased a writer when the editor is constrained to decline a manuscript. The Kansas City Star quotes a remark made by the Tribune as follows:

"Illustrious brother of the sun and moon, behold your servant who crawls at your feet, who kisses the ground before you and requests of your worship permission to speak and to live. We have perused your manuscript with rapture. By the bones of our ancestors we swear that never have we beheld the equal of this masterpiece, but if we should print it we should never in the future be able to find its equal. Therefore, we return your manuscript and bid ten thousand parsons Behold, my head is at your feet, and I am the servant of your servants."

OBESITY QUACKERY.
What has become of all the quacks who used to exploit the two great varieties of credulity—masculine and feminine? I can remember when one had to acquire a considerable expertness in order to distinguish the news from the symptoms. Nowadays one can scan whole columns, even pages, without encountering anything downright pathological. There must be some other field where the pickings are better for the quacks. Sure there is. They're reducing obesity now, selling simple folk treatments or methods which purport to "reduce while you eat."

For every member of the two classes of credulous people mentioned there are at least two fat persons, fat and simple, soft and easy. These fat folks look harmless enough, but they bite. Wherefore the great army of "discoveries" offered by the quacks.

These mail-order humbugs find plenty of victims I can have no doubt, because I have received so very many inquiries about them from prospective dupes. All the ancient dodges of professional mail order fakery are employed to impress the charlatan who calls his headquarters a "sanitarium" and uses on his pamphlets and his late pictures of the business building in which he has his office, the picture of a man in a military uniform, with the words "Scientific discovery of some secret which insures quick and easy reduction in weight with great profit to the obesity quack. Obese people are as simple as little children, apparently."

The clatter of mail order fakery is full of dishonest advertisements generally and obesity "cures" particularly. To read these popular magazines one might imagine that science is a humbug and nothing is easier than the "melting" away of superfluous flesh under the magic of some physical or medicinal application. Mr. Barnum expressed it very moderately. There were not so many of us fat in his day. What follows is an alarming ratio to the population. It is the fate in store for the majority of us who simply can't find the time to walk while the fiverr is running so well. The quacks are alive to this and they are getting rich through the efficient aid of the mails. Nobody loves a fat man and evidently everybody considers a fat woman a legitimate prey.

Bowers hasn't as many drug addicts as it has run sets.
Gotham has the "bromide" phobia.
A casual remark that speaks of the bromide phobia is a bromide. It is a term coined by a bromide phobe years ago and has not lost caste in the rush of fresher slang.
The weather and kindred everyday topics. One must achieve the brilliant epigram or wise-crack. The hackneyed phrase brands you as a conversational dolt.

As a result few talk about the subjects that interest them most. That is why I long for the comfortable room on the country hotel porch. Here we discussed the dog fight, the room mare that broke out of the pasture and the measles epidemic in Shantytown.

Do cats reason? There is a woman in Greenwich Village who, one night a week, makes it a custom to feed the neighborhood cats for her tiny little backyard. She has been doing this for four years. About 50 cats come there regularly on the Monday night. She does not place the food out in the yard until the cats arrive and thus proves that the cats are not attracted by the odor of the food.

And, by the way, Eloise, a little kitten with a mottled paw that I picked up from a village cat a year ago and transported her to the home of a friend in Park avenue is now a mother of six kittens. Eloise came from a cat and a dog and a silk cushion—a true Cinderella.

CROPS IN GEORGIA
NEED OF RAIN
Ideal weather, fair and cool, was forecast for today by C. F. von Hermann, meteorologist at the local office of the United States weather bureau Monday, following a day which just about met his description of the schedule for Tuesday.

The acceptability of the weather to Atlanta, however, was not general throughout the state according to unofficial reports which indicated that the period of dry weather had lasted too long for the good of the crops and that rain is badly needed on farms in many sections.

Strange Frogs of Rain.
Locally rainfall has played strange pranks this month, according to the weather man. Although total rainfall for the month is about normal, practically all of it fell within 65 minutes time, 1.57 inches in 40 minutes August 7, and 1.31 inches in 25 minutes August 17. Those were the only rains of the month except for light, thundershowers during which precipitation was hardly great enough to be measured.

Fine for Mosquitoes.
Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, declared Monday that the prevailing weather is just as acceptable to mosquitoes as it is to the citizens. Many streams have dried up since August 17, or have slowed up in the bed of current to the point that they are stagnant, making ideal breeding places for the stinging insects.

Eight men in the mosquito brigade have been working practically all night during the last month to check a threatened bumper crop of insects. One man has been answering telephone calls to places where the pests are reported where they are reported, water-filled tin cans and other mosquito nurseries. Two men in an automobile are making daily rounds of the city pouring oil into catch basins in which water has accumulated and still a third detachment of five men is attacking stagnant pools and sluggish streams, draining off stagnant water where possible and pouring kerosene on water which could not be drained off.

The value of Georgia's cotton crop will suffer a loss of from 10 to 15 per cent and the corn crop a loss of about 25 per cent because of the lack of rain for the past few weeks, it was stated Monday by E. B. Dykes, of Vienna, member of the house of representatives from Dooly county, and a large planter of south Georgia, who has just arrived in Atlanta after a trip through several of the south Georgia counties.

While the crops have suffered from the drought, stated Mr. Dykes, it also has its advantages, inasmuch as the dry weather has done a great deal toward eradicating the boll weevil in Georgia. "I think the weevil in Georgia will be the best we have had in the past five years," declared Mr. Dykes.

Georgia's peanut crop also will suffer considerably because of the drought, believes Mr. Dykes, who pointed out that the intense heat tends to burn the crop and retard its growth, while it also causes the young cotton bolls to bloom prematurely. The late corn especially will suffer from the drought, Mr. Dykes stated.

Mr. Dykes based his prediction on conditions of crops in south Georgia.

WIFE WITHDRAWS PEACE WARRANT AGAINST 'O'DOWD'

The $500 peace warrant which for several days hung heavily over the head of Charles Bowen, who, under the cognomen of "Tim O'Dowd," is a well-known local character, was withdrawn Monday following a request by Mrs. Bowen who said she wished to "avoid further publicity."

Mrs. Bowen, in a letter addressed to Judge T. O. Hathcock, of the municipal court, stated that she was "going to start divorce proceedings."

The peace warrant was issued recently on complaint of Mrs. Bowen, who accused the pugilist of throwing a cup of steaming coffee into the face of a man who had given her a ride in his car.

There are many similar cases, and not a one of the youngsters has the proper amount of clothes, according to Mr. Burton.

Atlanta's clothing of any kind will be accepted, and will be called for if Mr. Burton is notified by calling 1072. They can, of course, be left at the home, 56 East Ellis street.

COUNTY OFFICERS ARE CALLED TODAY BY GRAND JURORS

Henry M. Woods, clerk of the county commission, called today on the county commissioners and former chairman, and A. A. Clarke, superintendent of public works, will be among the chief witnesses to be called in the investigation launched recently into county affairs.

The probe is directed particularly at county financial matters, and has been under way for several weeks. Finding the present grand jury will be discharged and it is expected a report will be rendered at this final session concerning the results of the investigation which has been conducted with strictest secrecy.

2 COACHES DERAILED "Split" Switch Causes Accident on Georgia Road.

Two passenger coaches on train No. 1, of the Georgia railroad, were derailed Monday afternoon when the train passed under the Washington street viaduct. Officials of the company declared that the accident was caused when the two coaches "split" a switch. Police declared that no one was injured.

A young society girl who is too young to have been formally presented to society.

At what age does a "bull-head" fish reach its full growth?
At three to four years.

What poison can I use to get rid of bats in my attic?
The only way to permanently rid a house of bats is to close all possible entrances to your garret. Poison is ineffective since bats feed on insects and live food.

Why is it not possible to make good bread from new wheat?
During the ripening process of wheat the acidity is increased, thus increasing the activity of the enzymes, and when the wheat is made the yeast's activity is proportionately increased. That is the scientific reason that good bread cannot be made from new wheat—the wheat needs the ripening process in order to have the qualities in it to form good bread.

Can you suggest a good name to give to a summer beach?
Idle Hours, Happy Hours, Ride-a-Wave, Sunset Beach, Sun-side, Shady-side, Witherspoon, Bellevue, etc.

How can I clean tarnished zinc?
Apply with a rag a mixture of one part sulphuric acid and 12 parts water. Rinse with clear water.

From July 31, 1914, to December 7, 1914.

When were Richard Barthelmess, Conrad Nagel and Jack Holt born?
Richard Barthelmess, May 9, 1895; Conrad Nagel, March 16, 1897; Jack Holt, May 31, 1888.

Is it dangerous to drink milk when fish is also eaten?
No, provided both the milk and fish are perfectly fresh.

Have ships ever been run by radio?
Vessels have never been run by radio, but have been directed by radio waves.

Will cutting out the worm in a dog's tongue prevent it from going mad?
The supposed "worm" in a dog's tongue is the litta, or long verminiform mass of cartilage or fibrous tissue in the middle line and under the surface of the tongue of the dog. It is often removed by dog fanciers under the supposition that it is a "worm" or parasite and that its removal prevents rabies, but this is absolutely untrue.

Why did President Coolidge veto the immigration bill excluding Japanese from the United States?
He did not veto the bill, but in signing it, he made public a statement that he disapproved the section excluding Japanese immigrants.

What is the answer when one says: "Brothers and sisters have I none, but that man's father is my father's son?"
The individual must be the son of the speaker, since if he has neither sister nor brother, his father's grandfather would necessarily be his own son.

$1,000 LOOT TAKEN IN SUNDAY THEFTS

Burglars and yegmen looted business houses and residences over the week-end of valuables and money totaling more than $1,000, police reported Monday morning.

The safe in the Walton billiard parlor was robbed Sunday night after the burglars had carried it into the basement and prised open the door.

A safe in the office of Sig Samuels, of 1402 Citizens and Southern bank building, was looted of $200 in currency. The outer door of the safe had been left open and the key to the smaller door was obtained from a desk in the office, which was jammed, police declared.

Burglars entered a restaurant at 6 East Ellis street and removed $81 from the cash register.

The store, operated by E. Manly at 101 South Pryor street, was broken into a house on Sunday night and a quantity of cigars were stolen. The store of Philip Glass, of 231 Kennedy street, was looted of several hundred dollars' worth of merchandise.

The home of Mrs. Dan B. Harris, of 182 Penn avenue, was ransacked but no report of the loss has been made.

HARRIS TO ATTEND AIRPLANE DUSTING OF COTTON TODAY

Senator W. J. Harris will attend the airplane exhibition of the dusting of cotton with calcium arsenate in Atlanta today. He will attend the Rotary club luncheon in the classic city Wednesday and go to Cordele on Thursday for the airplane exhibition there which will be similar to the one in Atlanta.

Senator Harris Monday assured the members of the Waynesboro guard that he would make a special effort when Congress met to secure an appropriation to provide horses for their organization. All national guard units in the United States are short of their quota, except where the state has furnished animals.

WINTER DECISION NEAR PRISON BOARD Expected to Act Wednesday.

A decision will be announced Wednesday by the Georgia prison commission on the case of W. J. Minter, condemned to be hanged for killing his son-in-law, Millard Trouton, in Coweta county. The case was presented to the commission last week by friends and attorneys of Minter.

Major Lucius L. McCleskey, well-known railroad man, is critically ill at his home, 202 Myrtle street. He has been in ill health for several months, but his condition did not become serious until last week.

Major McCleskey has been employed by the Southern railway from 1881 until failing health forced his retirement several months ago. At that time he held the post of assistant general freight agent.

STATE PROGRESSIVES LAY CAMPAIGN PLANS

Further plans for the conduct of an active La Follette campaign in Georgia were discussed Monday afternoon at a meeting of the state executive committee of the progressive party in the office of C. W. McClure, acting state chairman. The business of selecting a state chairman was discussed until the next meeting, which was called for Wednesday, September 3.

Various suggestions and tentative plans were approved by the committee, and confidence was expressed by leaders of the movement that the progressive party would make a creditable showing in the state. Most of the promoters of the La Follette candidacy in Georgia are former progressives, including C. W. McClure, who was state chairman of the party in 1912.

Members of the committee present at the conference were: C. W. McClure, E. B. Dykes, J. B. Harris, E. B. Dykes, president of the Southern Cooperative Realty company; William Collier, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; A. L. Quinn, of the machine shop; J. B. Harris, acting state secretary; V. M. Harwell, R. S. Elrod, of Marietta, and L. W. Florence.

ENGINEERS NAMED FOR NEW AUTOCAR HOTEL BUILDING

Announcement was made Monday that Lockwood Green, a company, of Boston, with branch offices in Atlanta, have been commissioned to act as engineers in the construction of a building to be known as an automobile hotel, located at 22 Ivy street. The contract was signed by Bolling H. Jones, president of Ivy Street corporation.

The building to be erected, plans for which were announced in The Constitution some weeks ago, will be six stories in height with a storage space for automobiles. The building will be secured to the different floors by a system of ramps and, with staggered floors, it will be possible to erect a wide grade of the ramps so that access to any floor will be easy for any type of car. Other facilities will include washing racks and equipment for gasoline, and oil and tire service. There will be stores, offices, waiting rooms, chauffeurs, rooms, etc., on the ground floor, as well as some office space on the upper floors.

RADER TO ANSWER CENTRAL CHURCH CALL WEDNESDAY

Rev. Luke Rader, well-known evangelist, will speak at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night at the Central Baptist church, it was announced Monday by A. E. Todd, deacon. Mr. Rader has been invited to the church by Rev. W. P. Hambrick and will announce his decision at the meeting.

Mr. Rader also will address the congregation of the Central church at both services Sunday.

CHEATHAM WILL JOIN ILLINOIS LAW FACULTY

Elliott Cheatham, prominent Atlanta lawyer and professor in the Emory university law school, will leave Wednesday for Urbana, Ill., to take up his duties as professor of law in the University of Illinois. Mr. Cheatham is a graduate of the University of Georgia and the Harvard law school. He has built up an enviable reputation during the ten years he has practiced here.

Accompanying Mr. Cheatham will be his wife, Mrs. Ida Cheatham, also a law graduate and widely known as director of the third region of the National League of Women Voters. Although their departure will be deeply regretted by their many Atlanta friends, it is felt by his associates in the Atlanta bar that Mr. Cheatham has been highly honored by appointment to the faculty of the Illinois institution.

GEORGIA TOBACCO SELLS FOR $2.05

Blackshear, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—When sales began at 9 o'clock this morning all the available floor space was filled with the golden weed. The day's sales are about $50,000, while the average price is the highest yet. Prices are running high, and there is no let-up in the demand. As a matter of fact, the bidding today was very spirited with the result that prices show a distinct advance. What is perhaps the highest price ever paid for Georgia tobacco was paid here today by the American Tobacco company when a pile of local tobacco brought $2.05 a pound. Heavy receipts of tobacco are expected throughout this week.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?
Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?
Why cutting and operations fail?
Do you know the cause of piles is internal?
That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?
Do you know that there is a harmless internal tablet remedy discovered by Dr. Leonard and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Jacobs' Drug Stores and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?
HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the internal cause, by freeing blood circulation and saving the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.—(adv.)

ECZEMA ON BABY'S FEET

Back and Hands. Blisters Formed. Cuticura Heals.
"Eczema broke out in pimples on my baby's feet, back and hands when she was a few weeks old. Later small blisters formed and when they broke caused sore eruptions. Her feet itched and burned badly. She cried most of the time; did not sleep any hardly. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it helped her. I purchased more and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment she was healed."

Hazlehurst, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—Bright leaf tobacco poured into Hazlehurst today from five different counties in the state, and was highly pleased. This market sold 86,412 pounds today at an average price of 27.15 cents a pound.

Woman's Division Of Chamber Plans Fall Activities

Plans for the work to be undertaken by the Woman's division of the Chamber of Commerce during the fall and winter were discussed at an open forum meeting held Monday night in the Chamber of Commerce building.
Among the important undertakings will be a series of radio broadcasting programs, to be given at 10:45 o'clock on the first Wednesday of every month, starting September 3. The programs will be arranged through the music and art committee, but will be sponsored by the entire division.
Miss Susie Wallis, president of the Woman's division, delivered an interesting address at Monday night's meeting, and Miss Mary McDaniel, who was chairman of the membership drive during organization of the division, told of work done in connection with that campaign, and of plans for a new membership drive to open in the near future.
A number of vocal selections were rendered by Miss Lillian Everett, who was accompanied on the piano by Miss Frances Minor.

FAMOUS HANGMAN WHO LOST NERVE SHOTS HIMSELF

London, August 25.—John Ellis, England's famous hangman who lost his nerve and relinquished his sinister occupation last year after executing Mrs. Edith Thompson, the last woman who suffered the death penalty in Great Britain, was found this morning at his home seriously wounded with a revolver, lying beside him. It was said that he had spent a sleepless night prior to the shooting.
Ellis, who isolated himself socially, he served as public executioner, was said to have brooded over the fact that he had sent to their doom more condemned murderers than any other man who had ever held the hangman's office. After the execution of Mrs. Thompson he declared that he would never ascend the gallows again.

FEARFUL WITNESS DIVES FROM TRAIN

Tampa, Fla., August 25.—Fear of possible consequences of his testimony before the grand jury here may have prompted John McDonald's spectacular dive from the window of a moving train, a dive which is said to have netted him a broken arm and several broken ribs.
That is the opinion of Sheriff W. C. Spencer today, who expressed the belief that the man was fearful of what "certain persons would do to him if he gave certain testimony" before the grand jury. McDonald was en route here in charge of a deputy sheriff Saturday when he escaped. He is still at liberty, but the sheriff expressed confidence that he would be retaken before nightfall.

BARNESVILLE VOTERS ELECT NEW ALDERMEN

Barnesville, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—Howard Collier, Dave Kieckhefer and G. S. Klugh were elected aldermen in a spirited election held here today. Aldermen E. G. Horne being defeated. The new officers take oath September 8. Women voters were active and cast a large vote.

UNMASKED BANDITS ROBB MESQUITE BANK

Dallas, Texas, August 25.—Two unmasked bandits in a touring car held up the First National Bank of Mesquite, a few miles from Dallas, this afternoon and escaped with about $2,000.

Tiny Light Was Life Beacon To Aviators Adrift at Sea

BY OTIS PEABODY SWIFT.
On Board the U. S. S. Richmond, August 25.—A pin-point of light which in some miraculous manner penetrated the foggy mist overhanging the north Atlantic was the beacon that led the cruiser Richmond to the side of the wrecked seaplane which contained Lieut. Antonio Locatelli and his three companions.
Steaming slowly along on the almost hopeless search of a vast expanse of wind-tossed water, and with her fuel getting low, the Richmond crossed the path of the drifting plane. The watch officer discerned a tiny speck of light on the horizon. Twenty minutes later a shadowy form grew out of the mist around the tiny light. Soon afterward the unmistakable outline of a seaplane became visible and then the men themselves could be seen in the wreck that almost became their floating bier.
Locatelli boarded the Richmond at 2:50 Monday morning, a haggard, unkempt man. With the Italian pilot were his three companions, one of whom was their leader by the trying hours they had passed floating helplessly three days and three nights without food or sleep.
They explained that engine trouble forced them from the clouds at 2:37

Celestial Secrets Probed

With Mars closer to the earth this week by millions of miles than it has been since 1909, the closer by thousands of miles than for 200 years, the planet is being bombarded by hundreds of pairs of trained human eyes peering through the world's greatest telescopes. How effective these instruments are as measured especially by their effect on the image of the moon, our nearest neighbor in space, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.
"Brings Moon Within 50 Miles.
"The largest telescope in existence, the 102-inch instrument at Mt. Wilson observatory, California, in effect brings the moon within 50 miles of the earth," continues the bulletin. "Even relatively minor details of the moon's surface can be made out, and the height of hills and mountains can be calculated with fair accuracy. Major features are so easily recognized that many mountains on the moon have been named. If a wreck the size of the ill-fated Titanic lay on the bottom of one of the great ocean beds it would be visible through the Mt. Wilson instrument. Observations through this great telescope further emphasize what smaller instruments had proved, that the moon is a dry, atmosphereless world, from the height of hills and mountains can be calculated with fair accuracy. The present condition of the moon, so plainly shown by the big telescopes, forecasts what probably will happen to the earth, unless a collision with another celestial body should substitute a sudden end for a lingering death."
"When powerful telescopes are turned from the earth's small satellite to its great sun their disclosures are no less enlightening. They show that from the sun the earth would appear as small as a period on a printed page. So tremendous are some of the changes in the sun's surface which we call 'sun spots' that 25 or more globes the size of the earth would be required to fill them."
"Among other wonders which the great modern telescopes make known are swarms of myriads of stars where the unaided eye can see out five or six hundred miles which seem mere wisps of radiant gas and which are solar systems in the making, and stars so far away that it requires 30,000 years for their light to reach the earth. The light of some of these stars is so faint that two years must be spent in photographing them. Through the night the nebulae appear great holes seemingly devoid of any matter."
"Of course modern astronomical telescopes have not definitely answered the question on which man's mind has long dwelt: 'Are other planets inhabited?' They have piled up additional facts in regard to these planets and their moons which make the foremost astronomers to believe that none of the other planets of our solar system is inhabited. Through the night the nebulae appear great holes seemingly devoid of any matter."
It is in the hope of throwing more light on this absorbingly interesting question that the world's telescopes are turned to the earth, this summer on our red neighbor.

Crowley and Cobb Honored By Local Bank Associates

W. V. Crowley and C. P. Cobb, officials of the Citizens and Southern bank, who resigned August 22 to accept positions of president and vice president, respectively, of the Commercial Bank, Title and Trust company, at Miami, Fla., were guests of honor Monday night at a dinner given by officials of the Citizens and Southern bank at the Capital City club. Mr. Crowley leaves to take up his duties in a week, while Mr. Cobb will remain in Atlanta until October 1.
Among speakers at the dinner were W. W. Banks, H. L. Yonah, A. M. Berkstrom, H. S. Cohen, F. E. Coffee and Clark Howell, Jr. Others in attendance were C. H. Lewis, A. J. Stitt, W. T. Lane, T. C. Kravitz, C. L. Miller, C. E. Sheppard, E. T. Johnson, W. B. Symmers, J. E. Wallace, Fonville McWhorter, I. H. Parris, W. H. Goodmon, W. C. Bolner, W. R. DeLoach and Haynes McFadden. Fonville McWhorter acted as toastmaster.
Both Mr. Crowley and Mr. Cobb were presented with gold belt buckles and belts. H. S. Cohen making the presentation addresses. Mr. Cobb and Mr. Crowley each made a short address, expressing regrets at leaving the bank and Atlanta. Mr. Crowley stated that it is his ambition to make the Miami bank of the same standards and spirit as the Citizens and Southern bank. Mr. Cobb, who has been a bank man with a heart, and we intend to make the new bank the same sort of an institution.
Other speakers told of their extreme regret in losing such capable men as Mr. Crowley and Mr. Cobb, and high tribute was paid their industry and ability.
Mr. Crowley came to Atlanta 14 years ago, and after consolidation of the Citizens and Southern was named cashier. About a year ago he was appointed vice president and was placed directly in charge of public relations. In addition to being president of the Miami institution, he is a large stockholder.

ONLY ONE AUTO INJURY MONDAY

Mrs. E. J. Englett, 61, of 197 Feld street, Decatur, injured Monday afternoon when struck by the automobile driven by W. West, of 321 Adams street, Decatur, as she was crossing the street in front of her home, was the only casualty recorded in automobile accidents during the day. Mrs. Englett suffered a broken arm and fractured leg, but her condition is not serious. At her request, no case was made against West.
An unidentified negro driver is being sought in connection with the only other accident reported Monday, in which one man was injured. The machine, thought to have been stolen, crashed the corner from Butler into Cain street at a terrific rate of speed, crashed into the automobile owned by Felton Winfrey, negro, of 21 High street, which was parked on Cain street, and smashed into the front porch of the home of John Aske, colored, at 145 Cain street.
Members of the Aske family leaped from the porch when they saw the impending accident, and escaped uninjured, although the porch was demolished. After the crash the driver jumped out, tore the license plate from the rear of the car, and escaped.

Moore and Taylor Engage in Fight In Police Station

J. W. Taylor, 42, of 538 Pulliam street, and Will G. Moore, attorney, 333 Greenwood avenue, were arrested late Monday night on disorderly conduct charges following a fight between them which took place outside the door of recorder's court at police station. Both were released on copies of charges.
The fight grew out of an argument regarding Taylor's testimony in the trial of his wife on a charge of disorderly conduct brought by Albert Gossett, manager of "Tim O'Dowd," the prizefighter, and a boarder at the Taylor home. Taylor charges that Moore called him a liar during the course of the trial, and that he sought to make the attorney "swallow the statement."
Moore admitted that he passed the lie, but claimed that he did so only after Taylor had made remarks when not on the witness stand. He claims that when he left the court room, Taylor made a remark which he then struck him, precipitating the fight. Moore apologized to the court for his statement.

DAVIS SPEAKS TWICE AT COLUMBUS TODAY

New York, August 25.—John W. Davis, democratic presidential candidate, will make two speeches tomorrow at Columbus, Ohio. The first will be before the democratic state convention and the second at the state fair grounds.
While Mr. Davis has not prepared an address in advance, it is understood that in his speech to the state convention he will reply to a question specifically to President Coolidge's acceptance address than he did at Seagriff, N. J., last Friday.
The democratic nominee will return here Wednesday to prepare for the first extended tour of his campaign. His first address on that trip will be at Wheeling, W. Va., on Labor day and the second probably will be at Chicago. After several days at the western headquarters there Mr. Davis will visit Nebraska, Iowa and other western states.

RUM 179 YEARS OLD TASTED BY OWNER AND SEALED AGAIN

London, August 25.—A bottle of Jamaica rum 179 years old, honored as the oldest in the world, has just been opened and sampled by its owner, a London merchant, and a few of his friends. It was then re-sealed and put away with instructions for it to be tasted once in each generation of the owner's descendants. The bottle, unusually was unopened and tasted by the generations of 1857 and 1884. A modest value of 15pound sterling has been placed on the treasure.

LOUISIANA LAW EVADED BY KLAN

New Orleans, La., August 25.—There are no officials of the Ku Klux Klan in Louisiana, therefore there will be no one who can be held legally responsible when that organization fails to file a list of members with the secretary of state in December in accordance with the law passed by the recent legislature, the Times-Picayune will say tomorrow.
The klansmen are laughing up their sleeves at the trick, inasmuch as Imperial Wizard Evans four weeks ago came to Louisiana and discharged the grand dragon and the three titans and placed the state organization in control of a triumvirate, who can not be construed as officials under the law.
And even if some member of the Klan wished to file the list with the secretary of state he would find the task difficult as the only official list

BOOGER BOOS.

By Daisy Baker Hay.
One't when I wuz a little boy,
An' uster run away
When my ma wuz busy,
An' sent me out to play,
She always told me to be good,
An' min' what I's about,
Or else a BOOGER BOO might come
An' cut my eye-balls out!

It uster keep me scared to death,
An' always mindin' ma,
An' kep' me bringin' in the wood,
An' doin' chores for pa.
'Cause every time my thoughts wuz bad,
I never had a doubt,
But that the BOOGER BOOS might come
An' cut my eye-balls out.

I heered my pa, the other night,
When I'z behind the door,
Say he wuz skeered as anything,
An' likewise mighty sore,
That queer things wuz a-happenin'
In this country round about,
That BOGUS BOOSE
Cut his High-Balls out!

In Good Shape.

Income Tax Collector (to theater owner)—I believe your statement, but I MUST see your figures.
Theater Owner—Then you should have gone to the dressing room—not to the box office.

A Probable Exception.

"A scientist says, here in the paper," remarked Mrs. Fumblegate, the maid of her reading, "that in five years more we'll all be flying."
"Maybe some folks will be, but not my hired man," responded Farmer Fumblegate. "He'll do well to crawl, let alone fly."

Etiquette for Eaters.

Folks at table are not lonely—Park your legs on your side only.
One's appetite one loses—One's heart-beats start to miss When someone near one uses His knife for emphasis.

Some table cut-ups are all right, If they are clever and polite; But I am apt to get the fits When someone cuts his meat in bits.

You Never Can Tell.

Man—Now I don't know much about you flappers, but when I was your age—
Flapper—You were never my age. I'm fifty-seven, and a grandmother!

Air Mail Aviator (to pilot)—Slow down over there, Jim. My girl lives on that farm, and I want to drop her a line.

The one-piece bathing suits the girls are wearing may have no hooks, but they certainly don't lack for eyes!

The Fun Shop Hall of Fame.

We nominate for The Hall of Fame Mrs. Rosalie Barker because she has attended thirty-five wedding receptions in her life, and never once has she lifted up a piece of silver to see how heavy it was.

John Martin Cowley because though he has been an after-dinner speaker for eighteen years he has never once begun his speech by remarking that the previous speaker had been king of the story of the two Irishmen.

Walter Torrey because when, on June 28, 1924, his wife departed for the country, he remembered to see that all the electric lights were turned off, the telephone disconnected, the milkman notified to stop bringing milk, the windows all locked, the ice-man ordered to bring no more ice, the cereals and other perishable food taken over to "mother's," and the neighbor's children bribed not to mark up the fence during the summer.

A Matter of Degrees.
A friend was congratulating Farmer Diggs upon his son's graduation from college.

"So Frank has come out a Ph. D., has he?"
"Mebbe so," replied the fond parent, "but, ye know, things sometimes gets turned around. Seems to me like he's come out a D-Ph."

—Alice A. Smith.

The meaning of S. O. S. on an excursion boat: SAVE G.P. SEATS.

Along Came Ruth!
"What will my little Ruthie do when grandma is very old and is taken away by the angels?"

"I won't let the angels take you, granny," replied 5-year-old Ruth. "I'll tell dad to have you stuffed."

—Vera Friedlander.

The Gabber.
"Half of the pleasure of a vacation is in telling about it afterwards."

Tarkington, who had just got back from a jaunt.
"H'm," returned J. Fuller Gloom.

"You appear to be a regular glutton for fun!"

—Elsie Furness.

The Jingle-Jangle Counter.
Youth is bound to have its fling; Shutters have a wicked swing.

—Nell Nelson.

Ships their harbors try to win; Fighters spar and sail right in.

—Gertrude Heller.

The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year,
My summer suit is all worn out, and winter isn't here!

—Doris Kremer.

—Felix Cruise.

Rings of Smoke.
Anne—What sort of a smoker is Kate?

Belle—Not so good. I can smoke rings around her.

—Harold Judell.

It Doesn't Pay.
Helen—Do you believe in marrying for money?

Jane—No; it's bad business.

—Norma Talmadge.

The Editor's Gossip Box.
We have had some letters asking why we run contributions from certain contributors more than once.

We are not concerned with the contributor as much as with his contribution, and, if the contributor can "hit the nail on the head" six days a week, he can "make" this department six days a week.

The same applies to you. We shall be only too glad—and we speak most sincerely—to accept as much of your material as possible if what you send in is the type we can use.

DO YOUR FUN SHOPPING EARLY.

The King of Beasts

BY COURTNEY RILEY COOPER

"No—Gyp isn't taking chances."
"What are we going to do? Have to give up?"

The major smiled.
"Well, I don't know how you're doing with the cat," came at last. "But as—as to this other—I've always sworn that I'd never have an animal trainer in my family. But—" he mouthed his cigar, turned on his heel and then, as he started away, added over his shoulder: "Damme if I'm not beginning to like you."

Then as he went on, a man and a girl forgot for the moment the crouching, vengeful thing in the cage—forgot it in the happiness of something greater. At last, however, they turned again to the den, and Wainwright stood for a long moment considering the beast within.

"I guess there's only one thing to do," he said at last, "and that's to wait until he's fairly developed and then go at him—to make or break. He's got it in him to be a demon, and there's no gentleness nor kindness that can pull him out of it. Not that I intend to be cruel with him—but it's a case of training and of teaching him that he has a master. Nothing else will do."

With the result that Crook went back to his wire-netted cage, where his paws, with their sharp talons, could not penetrate to tear at the arms of passersby, or lacerate the hands of the men who fed him.

The circus season closed; the menagerie became a thing of "permanent" den and lassitude as the big show went into winter quarters to await the time when snows would fade and the gleam of a summer sun bring the crowded curbing of the parade route once again. Month by month the winter traveled by, into the warmer days of spring.

Then it was that Ned Wainwright stood before the cage of Crook, now more than two-thirds grown.

"Transfer him into the permanent den opening on the arena," he commanded an assistant. "Then strap him down and put the mechanic on him. I'm going to start training this afternoon."

With the result that in a few hours, while Louise Worthington and her father watched anxiously from outside the arena, a young man, armed only with a stick and a kitchen chair, took his place within, to await the entrance of a fiend. As for the fiend himself—

His legs were pulled tight in four opposing directions, where they had been noosed and tautened by cautious animal men. About his shoulders was a swivel at its top, and leading from this, through the bars and up through

I TELL YOU, GENTLEMEN, THIS COUNTRY IS GOING TO THE DOGS—I REMEMBER WHEN I COULD WALK INTO A STORE AND SELL A CAR-LOAD OF HAIR-PINS BEFORE AN ORDINARY SALESMAN COULD FINISH SAYING "GOOD MORNING." NOW WHEN I WALK IN AND TRY TO SELL A PACKAGE OF HAIR-PINS I'M ABOUT AS POPULAR AS AN ARMY WORM.

the top of the arena, was a rope, running through a pulley—the "mechanic" by which the equestrian learns his act, the trapeze performer is guarded against nasty tumbles in the perfection of his performance—and the refractory animal withheld painlessly from tearing to pieces the man who seeks to command him. For in animal training there is animal psychology, and the teaching of other things save the mere routine of an act.

"There's just a chance that he was badly scared some way when I didn't know about it," Wainwright said as he leaned against the bars, waiting the final adjustment of the mechanic straps. "If that's the case, this ought to pull him out of it. I've had 'em that way before—but I could always sense the fear in them."

"Of course, if he is just scared, we'll get along all right. He'll jump and tear at me for a while, but the mechanic'll hold him off, and naturally, he'll expect me to come at him and hurt him. When he finds that I don't, and that I'm just a sort of cage-mate with him, there ought to be a lot of difference. That is—if he's just afraid."

"But if he isn't?" Worthington asked the question, and Ned smiled. "That's another kettle of fish entirely," came frankly. "In that case, I don't know what I'm going to do—except that I don't intend to hurt him. Nobody ever got anywhere by hurting animals." Then he turned quickly. "All right there, High-pockets."

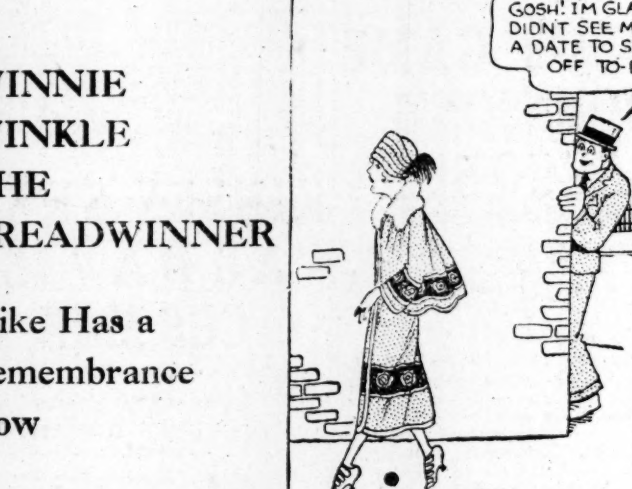

"Aw-right," came from the cage. "Open the door and let him come."

Steel grated. A door swung wide. A second later, a creeping, sinuous thing, more like a striped Bengal than a lion, the renegade came into the arena to him, to turn, then, without even waiting for the usual padding motion of settling, to leap toward the man who awaited him.

A scream—from the girl—a scream stifled almost the moment it began. For a command had sounded; strong arms tugged hard at the "mechanic" rope, and a struggling, clawing thing,

The great, sleek cats do not go through their paces because of fear, or a sense of slavery, but mainly because they understand, because they realize that the cracking of the whip is only so much noise to enhance the act, because, through long association, they have realized that this human who daily sends them through their various numbers is not an ogre, but the friend who feeds them, who nurses them when they are ill, who beds down their cages thick with straw when the chill winds blow, who watches after them and cares for them. They seem to learn that it is an association in which both are working, and in which both are necessary. But not so with Crook.

Time and again that afternoon they tried it—finally to send Crook back to his cage, there again to sulk, to lick his heavy chops, to turn and writhe and roar and howl with the excitement of his first afternoon in the training arena.

OPERATION ADVISED FRIEND SAID "DON'T DO IT!"

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First. Proved Good Advice

Chicago, Illinois.—"Just a few lines to let you know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was married going on for three years, and went to a doctor and was taking treatments twice a week for pains every month. I used to lie in bed three or four days with them and the doctor would call and inject something into my arm to put me to sleep so I would not feel the pains. At last she said I would have to be operated on if I wanted any children. Well, I just happened to go to see a friend with her first baby and I told her I was going to the hospital, and she said, 'Don't do it! You go and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you won't need any operation.' So my husband got me a bottle right away. Now I have two lovely children. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every woman. It has helped me and a lot of my friends."

—Mrs. A. McANDREWS, 1709 South Morgan St., Chicago, Illinois.

ALABAMA OFFICERS SEEK FRED GRIFFIN IN SHOOTING ROW

Anniston, Ala., August 25.—(Special.)—Charlie Williams, of Reeds Mills, is being treated at a local hospital today while Calhoun county officials are searching for Fred Griffin, who is alleged to have shot and wounded Williams with a shotgun following a dispute late Sunday night.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HOLDS PICNIC TONIGHT

The annual picnic of the Atlanta Christian Endeavor union will be held tonight at 6:30 o'clock at Piedmont park. A feature of the evening's program will be a number of "stunts" by various societies of the union. Arrangements are in charge of H. H. Saxe, of the First Christian society.

WORSHAM MOURNED BY MONROE CITIZENS

Miss Sheffield Gives Luncheon

Miss Evelyn Sheffield entertained Friday at a luncheon at her home on Peachtree road in honor of several of her schoolmates.

Covers were laid for Miss Frances Johnson, of Washington, Ga.; Miss Mildred Brown, of Columbus, Ga.; Miss Mildred Nix, of Albany, Ga.; Misses Ida and Annie Young, of Cretown, Ga.; Miss Elizabeth Arnold, Miss Jean Williams and Miss Edith Beasley.

NEW RECORD SET BY REGISTRATION

The greatest registration in the history of the city, more than 21,000, was made in City Clerk Walter Taylor's office at city hall Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock. These Atlanta citizens have qualified to vote in the city democratic primary September 24. Candidates' entry books closed at noon at the offices of W. J. Laney, secretary of the city democratic executive committee.

The final hours for entrance into the race developed two surprises, one the entrance of a woman, Mrs. George P. Dickson, against W. H. Johnson, for city warden, and the other the entrance of Robert M. Cobb, Jr., in the race for council from the ninth ward against C. D. Knight, the incumbent, and Judge John S. Chandler, who was entered by friends several weeks ago.

Mayor Sims and James L. Key have the field to themselves for mayor, and except in the second and ninth ward councilmanic races the candidates are paired off, one and one, in the contests for city offices. These candidates are running for the third and ninth ward councilmanic seats. No three-cornered city wide races developed, however, and, therefore, no city-wide run-off primary can eventuate.

COLQUITT CONVICTS STILL AT LARGE; TO LAUNCH PROBE

Montrie, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—Posse Abernathy, slayer of Will Jackson at a country dance near Montrie three years ago, who with three other white prisoners escaped from the Ellenton camp of the Colquitt county chargin, this morning were still at large tonight. The four prisoners were followed several miles by track dogs but the trail was lost. The men had a good start. It was not made clear just how the quartette managed to get away, and intimated at the office of the board of county commissioners that a rigid investigation would be made. Abernathy was convicted of voluntary manslaughter and was given a 10-year sentence. The three men, who escaped with him were long term men also.

Thomasville Doctor May Lose Car, $1,000 In Flim-Flam Game

Thomasville, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—Dr. J. T. Culpepper, of this city, seems in danger of losing $1,000 and his large touring car as the result of a trade with a man who claimed he was J. P. Lay and a representative of an automobile concern.

About three weeks ago, Lay went to Dr. Culpepper at his office at the Bank of Thomasville, of which he is vice president, and stated that he understood that there had been some little trouble with the new car belonging to Dr. Culpepper and as representative of the company he would like to remedy it. Dr. Culpepper gave him a car and a check for $1,000 for a new model.

Nothing more was thought of the matter until a day or two ago, when Sheriff Davis was notified by an Atlanta fire to look up for Lay and the new car, which belonged to a party in Dublin and which Lay had offered to drive to Atlanta to have some little defect remedied at the office of the company, but instead came to Thomasville.

The Atlanta office stated that Lay had been formerly an agent at Rome, but was not now connected with the company.

The check given Lay by Dr. Culpepper was cashed three days afterwards at Gainesville, Fla., and was cleared through Jacksonville and has been paid.

Dr. Culpepper is making every effort to find the man with whom he recovered it and his money or establish ownership to the car he has. The party from Dublin claiming the ownership of the car is expected to come here and identify it.

Morgan County Men Held on Rum Charge Make Heavy Bonds

Athens, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—Three of the five men arrested in Morgan county several days ago in raids on illicit distilleries have been released from the Clarke county jail. They were brought here following their arrest by the federal authorities.

Two of the men, John Eaton and B. A. Rhinehart, have not made bond and are in the Clarke jail. S. R. Moore, one of the men, made bond of $1,500 in two cases. Robert Howell and John Rogers were released upon making $1,500 bond each. The five men were arrested following raids in Morgan county when several thousand gallons of beer were captured and several stills destroyed. Federal officers were at work in Greene county last week.

J. DELA WOODALL DIES IN HOSPITAL

Joseph DeLa Woodall, popular and well-known young business man, died late Monday afternoon at a private hospital, following an illness of several months. He was stricken with typhoid malaria about three months ago, and had been confined to his bed since that time. He was 25 years old and was a native of Georgia.

Mr. Woodall was 70 years of age, moving to Monroe from Crawford county when a young man. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Emma Zellner, daughter of Judge B. H. Zellner, of beloved memory. They lived together for 52 years and for most of that period in the beautiful country home where he died. He formed on a very large scale, was prominent in business, and for many years was one of the first citizens of Monroe county, having served both in the house of representatives and as state senator.

He leaves two sons, W. A. Worsham, Jr., of New York, and Grover Worsham, of Culloden, and five daughters, Mrs. W. K. Abercrombie, of Culloden; Mrs. Clifford Nelson, of Thomaston; Mrs. Little Fitzpatrick, of Atlanta; and Misses Nanette May and Emma Worsham, of Culloden.

Since retiring from his public career Mr. Worsham devoted himself largely to his family and business activities. No man who ever lived in this county was more universally esteemed.

MRS. LENA ACKERMAN DIED EARLY MONDAY

Mrs. Lena Ackerman, 62 years of age, died on Monday morning at 2:05 o'clock, at the home of her son, Mrs. John H. Strang, at 128 Olympic Place, Decatur.

Mrs. Ackerman had been a resident of Decatur county nearly all her life. She was born in Walhalla, S. C., but moved to Ingleside, Ga., when young. She lived in Ingleside for about 15 years, later making her residence in Decatur. She was one of the best loved women among her acquaintances in the county.

She is survived by two sons, C. E. Ackerman, of Summit, N. J., and Edward Ackerman, of Strangfield, Missouri; by one daughter, Mrs. J. H. Strang, of Decatur, and by 15 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the residence, Rev. Marshall Woodson, pastor of the Oakhurst Presbyterian church, will officiate and interment will be in the Decatur cemetery. Mrs. Ackerman was a lifelong Presbyterian and, at the time of her death, a member of the Oakhurst church.

Palbearers will be Frank W. Taylor, G. S. Radford, R. B. Strang, E. L. Lippitt, L. M. Womack and L. L. Grubbs.

ATLANTA'S OWN BEGINS SECOND WEEK OF CAMP

Brunswick, Ga., August 25.—(Special.)—Monday's activities of the 1924 infantry, "Atlanta's own," got under way with continuation of the intensive training schedule mapped out by officers of the regiment. Drill period officially ceased at noon, only the regimental parade at 5 o'clock breaking the usual afternoon of pleasant features.

The second week of the annual two weeks' encampment got under way over a two-day period of rest and recreation without a hitch, with men in excellent spirits and no serious illness reported among more than the 1,200 men in camp.

Reports of the sanitary officer made daily at officer's meeting at noon, and made public today, show that the camp is 100 per cent sanitary; that there was an abundance of food, including choice meat and fresh vegetables.

The regimental baseball league is playing from two to four games each day, and the pennant winner will be named in games to be played Thursday afternoon.

The non-commissioned officers' dance at the St. Simon hotel Monday night was a brilliant affair. Non-coms were guests of officers, and an officers' committee headed by Major Charley Thompson arranged the affair.

On Wednesday night, officers of the regiment will have their annual camp dance at Ogletheepore hotel at Brunswick. A special orchestra has been secured and the affair promises to be the most brilliant in many years. Elaborate preparations are being made and the dancing contingent of Brunswick and St. Simon is and are anticipating good music by the regimental band, led by John Schaff, which will be heard in concert just preceding the dance, and which will play the grand march during intermissions the band will take charge of musical features.

A brisk northeaster has played up and down the coast for the past three nights, adding to the pleasures of surf bathing by bringing heavy seas and high waves. The storm, however, has not ventured inland and pleasant winds and delightful weather conditions have prevailed throughout the past few days.

Services on Wednesday For Engineer Who Died While Running Train

Funeral services for Guy N. Hancock, veteran engineer of the Southern railroad, who died from heart failure Sunday night while running his train between here and Macon, will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, with Rev. W. H. Major and Rev. E. P. Carson officiating. Interment will be in West View, with Gate City division No. 368, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in charge of services.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Miss Harriet Hancock; his father, H. W. Hancock, of Robinson, Ga.; three sisters, Mrs. D. K. McKibbin of Atlanta; Mrs. J. Bell Martin, of Pittsburg; and Mrs. I. C. Andrews, of Robinson, and two brothers, Cecil Hancock, of Toledo, and Dupont Hancock, of Washington, D. C.

J. DELA WOODALL DIES IN HOSPITAL

Joseph DeLa Woodall, popular and well-known young business man, died late Monday afternoon at a private hospital, following an illness of several months. He was stricken with typhoid malaria about three months ago, and had been confined to his bed since that time. He was 25 years old and was a native of Georgia.

Mr. Woodall was 70 years of age, moving to Monroe from Crawford county when a young man. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Emma Zellner, daughter of Judge B. H. Zellner, of beloved memory. They lived together for 52 years and for most of that period in the beautiful country home where he died. He formed on a very large scale, was prominent in business, and for many years was one of the first citizens of Monroe county, having served both in the house of representatives and as state senator.

He leaves two sons, W. A. Worsham, Jr., of New York, and Grover Worsham, of Culloden, and five daughters, Mrs. W. K. Abercrombie, of Culloden; Mrs. Clifford Nelson, of Thomaston; Mrs. Little Fitzpatrick, of Atlanta; and Misses Nanette May and Emma Worsham, of Culloden.

Since retiring from his public career Mr. Worsham devoted himself largely to his family and business activities. No man who ever lived in this county was more universally esteemed.

MRS. LENA ACKERMAN DIED EARLY MONDAY

Mrs. Lena Ackerman, 62 years of age, died on Monday morning at 2:05 o'clock, at the home of her son, Mrs. John H. Strang, at 128 Olympic Place, Decatur.

Mrs. Ackerman had been a resident of Decatur county nearly all her life. She was born in Walhalla, S. C., but moved to Ingleside, Ga., when young. She lived in Ingleside for about 15 years, later making her residence in Decatur. She was one of the best loved women among her acquaintances in the county.

She is survived by two sons, C. E. Ackerman, of Summit, N. J., and Edward Ackerman, of Strangfield, Missouri; by one daughter, Mrs. J. H. Strang, of Decatur, and by 15 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the residence, Rev. Marshall Woodson, pastor of the Oakhurst Presbyterian church, will officiate and interment will be in the Decatur cemetery. Mrs. Ackerman was a lifelong Presbyterian and, at the time of her death, a member of the Oakhurst church.

Palbearers will be Frank W. Taylor, G. S. Radford, R. B. Strang, E. L. Lippitt, L. M. Womack and L. L. Grubbs.

COURT LIBERATES MAN ACCUSED BY ROME GIRL

Chicago, August 25.—Frank Frostia, 35, whose name was given as Foster when he was arrested recently on the story of a Rome, Ga., girl that he had lured her to an apartment and had held her a prisoner, was discharged in court of domestic relations today when the young woman admitted she was of legal age.

Frostia had been charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor as a result of the girl's story that she was 17 years old. Today she gave her age as 18.

Civic and Fraternal Bodies Are Urged To Support Fair

Ways and means for increasing attendance at the October event were discussed at a meeting of the executive committee of the Southeastern fair held Monday in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

It was pointed out that the fair belongs to the people of Atlanta and the southeast; that Atlanta is in reality the host during the fair, and that Atlanta therefore is in a measure responsible for its success.

With a view to increasing attendance the committee extended to all civic and fraternal organizations of the city an invitation to support the fair and participate in its activities by claiming a special day and attending in a body. The committee pledged its hearty cooperation in carrying out any special program that may be arranged for that day.

"Our outlook for a great fair was never brighter," said Col. F. J. Paxon, chairman of the committee. "Reports coming in from the whole of Georgia make certain larger agricultural displays and greater prosperity in the state, assuring a greater interest and larger attendance from the country."

MACCABEE CARAVAN WILL GO TO MACON

Approximately 100 of the leading Maccabees of Atlanta will go by auto to Macon today to take part in a big class initiation in that city tonight. The Maccabees of Macon Tent No. 14, with the assistance of special field workers, have rounded up 60 new members for this class. The degree team of Georgia Tent No. 18 of Atlanta will put on the ritualistic degrees work of the Maccabees in full form and as this degree team is regarded as the best in the south members of tonight's class are promised an unusually beautiful ceremony.

The main body of the motor caravan will leave the Maccabee temple, 217 1-2 Peachtree street, at 12:30 o'clock and will be joined at East Point and Hapeville by more autos. All cars will be decorated with banners, flags and pennants and will be led by a pace-maker, each machine being assigned a number and place which it will retain all the way.

The Macon Maccabees will meet the motored caravan a few miles out from Macon. After the meeting a banquet will be given by the Macon members. Colonel F. E. Herndup will be toast master and will be assisted by T. W. Sammons, C. A. Fretwell, W. O. Cooper, T. W. Butler, P. E. Murry, Dr. W. J. Post, W. A. McKenna and Dr. J. T. Hembree.

PALESTINE LECTURE BY DR. DUNBAR OGDEN

Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden, supplying the Central Presbyterian church during vacation, will deliver a popular lecture at the Wednesday evening prayer meeting in from the whole of Georgia make certain larger agricultural displays and greater prosperity in the state, assuring a greater interest and larger attendance from the country."

Dr. Ogden has recently concluded an extensive tour of Europe and the Holy Land. The lecture will be of special benefit to Bible students and Sunday school teachers. The public is cordially invited to attend.

DE WITT C. INGLE DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

DeWitt C. Ingle, for more than 25 years identified with the postoffice here, died Sunday night at a private hospital, following an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Ingle, who was 66 years old, was born in Virginia, but moved to Atlanta 35 years ago, operating a school here until he entered the employ of the government. Failing health forced him to leave the postoffice a year ago, and since that time he had resided in Jacksonville.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. S. W. Fariss, of Fayette, Ga., and two sons, Pierce Ingle, of Jacksonville, and Robert B. Ingle, of Fulton, N. Y.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

ATLANTAN TO SPEAK AT LAND BANK MEET

C. A. Cobb, of Atlanta, president of the Agricultural Editors' association and editor of the Southern Ruralist, will deliver an address at Chicago next Tuesday, before the sixth annual meeting of the American Association of Joint Stock Land banks, which will hold a two-day session at the Hotel LaSalle. Announcement of the address was received in Atlanta Monday from W. W. Powell, Washington, D. C., secretary of the association.

Mr. Cobb has just returned from a tour of Europe. His talk will be broadcast, shortly after 7 p. m. Tuesday, from the radio station WLS, of the Sears-Roebuck company.

OILS SEE LOSSES IN CUPR MARKET

IN CURB MARKET

New York, August 25.—Stock prices opened firm on an accumulation of week-end buying orders in today's curb market, but the general business turned restive with

Announcement of a substantial increase in gasoline consumption and further reduction last week in Texas crude oil production failed to check the selling in the oil group. Prairie Oil and Gas, Cities Service and Solar Refining dropped 1 to 2 points, but net losses in most of the other active shares were held to small fractions. Red Bank, Standard Oil of New York and Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania closed fractionally higher.

Industrials and public utilities were mixed. Grains of 1 to 2 points in American Light and Traction, American Power and Light, and United Bakeries were counteracted by losses of a point or more in American and Foreign Power, American Power, Leligh Power securities and Dubilier and Ware Radios.

No par common stock of the Joseph W. Jones Radio Manufacturing company, 100,000 shares, of which we admitted to trading, was active at 7 3/4 or slightly above the offering price. Mack Truck receipts also were traded in for the first time, selling between 46 and 46 3/4.

JOHN D. WINS FIGHT AGAINST INDIGESTION

Daytona, Fla., August 25.—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., has won what perhaps has been the hardest fight of his life—that against indigestion, according to information revealed by one of his closest friends, during his winter visits to this section of the Florida east coast.

The story is told that after coming to Florida Mr. Rockefeller's appetite is keen and his digestion is normal. It is stated that Mr. Rockefeller is able to sit down to the table and eat anything any ordinary man eats, although he uses judgment in his diet and does not overeat. Mr. Rigby says he has eaten with the oil magnate frequently and that he is surprised at the variety of food he enjoys.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., recently bought an estate at Ormond, and his father since has acquired one near it, in order to be nearer his son, it is said. The elder Rockefeller has for some years spent his winters at Daytona Beach, where he has taken a daily turn around the golf course for eight holes.

Ku Klux Klan remain in office," the nominee is quoted as saying in an interview obtained from her at her home in Temple Monday.

"Mrs. Ferguson plans to continue her campaign against the Ku Klux Klan and what she terms as secret domination of Texas politics by a hooded order, according to the capital city newspaper. She plans to have carried into effect, the Austin American interview states, the plank of her campaign platform in which she specifically condemns the Ku Klux Klan and proposes legislation against masking, against masked assembly, and for compulsory registration of members in secret orders for public inspection at the county clerk's office in each county.

Her intentions in regard to Klan legislation she made known Monday, according to the Austin American, by referring her interview to a published copy of her campaign platform. She added that upon her election she plans to exert her influence as governor for the adoption of this legislation.

It is as much to the wave of anti-Klan sentiment as to the pro-Ferguson element of Texas voters that Mrs. Ferguson attributes her success in Saturday's primary and she considers this as a mandate from the voters to continue the aggressive policy against the Ku Klux Klan, according to the copyrighted article.

RECEIVER IS NAMED FOR OIL COMPANIES

Texarkana, Ark., August 25.—Dr. R. L. Saxon, of El Dorado, Ark., referee in bankruptcy, as temporary receiver for five Union county, Arkansas, companies when a petition in bankruptcy was filed by four creditors against Gordon Ingall as trustee for the companies.

The companies involved are the Kosmos Mutual Ownership Pool, Richard Rader Mineral Deeds, Robert Edwards Mineral Deeds, Oil Fields corporation and the Gordon Ingall and Oil Field corporation.

Liabilities were scheduled at $300,000 and assets at $250,000.

The allegation was made that the Oil Fields corporation was an incomplete and illegal corporation formed for the purpose of merging three of the companies.

Name of Ferguson May Be Cleared Of Official Stain

Temple, Tex., August 25.—(By Associated Press).—Suggestion that the nomination of Mrs. Miriam Ferguson as democratic candidate for the governor obliged the state to remove all disqualifications against her husband, James E. Ferguson, former governor, from holding office, were contained in a message she received today. It was because a judgment of impeachment said her husband should not hold public office that Mrs. Ferguson became a candidate.

One message today was signed W. W. Graves, chief justice of the supreme court of Missouri, and said: "Your race shows what women can do when they give thought to real questions of state and national matters. The state of Texas is to be congratulated."

Another, signed W. C. Braxton, former governor of Alabama, said: "Congratulations over hooded bolshevism and for constitutional government."

OWNERSHIP WITH GOVERNMENT PROFIT

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway has issued a special circular which states that it is in 1923 a total of $5,501,754 to the various states, or 5 per cent of the company's operating revenues.

If the railroad were to be sold, the government ownership "all hollow" for in the case of this particular railroad the actuality is private ownership with government profit.

"I Like Your Glasses!"

—said a woman the other day, who has been wearing our glasses for years. Of course she has worn them as comfortably," she added. We are always very careful about the way we fit glasses. We know what a treasured possession your vision is, and we do everything possible to improve and protect it for you. At the same time, we study the features of your face and fit you with glasses that conform to your lines and thereby achieve smart appearance. Let us fit you with glasses.

OUR salesmen who inspected this house made an enthusiastic report as to its many attractive features. One of these features is the beauty of the lawn and backyard. The place has wonderful shrubbery, which takes years to grow and adds much to the attractiveness of any home. The house itself is a beautiful structure of English design, first story brick, second story half timber, with an asbestos shingle roof; porches and terraces are floored with red tile; there are seven rooms and two baths, all rooms are large size; lot fronts 100 feet. The location is one of the prominent drives in Druid Hills.
